SHOOTING OF MEXICAN IN NAGO STIRS BORDER

American Mule Packer Is Reported to Have Wandered Into Mexico and Shot Man Who Captured Him.

AMERICAN ESCAPES;
MEXICAN WILL DIE

General Davis at Douglas will Be Asked to Investigate Incident for the Carrancista Government.

(By Review Leased Wire.)
NAGO, ARIZ., Oct. 12.—When an American mule driver attached to the Arizona national guard crossed the international line near here today to recover a strayed mule, he shot and fatally wounded Private Miguel Fontes, a Carrancista guard on the Mexican side of the line, who tried to arrest him, according to reports here tonight. The Mexican soldier attempted to arrest the mule driver, whose name is not known, and the latter opened fire. It is said, shooting the Mexican in the left side and inflicting a wound that was pronounced fatal by the American doctors who attended him. The American mule driver is said to have fled to the American side of the line and army officers are now trying to locate him in the camp here.

APPEALS TO DAVIS.
DOUGLAS, Oct. 12.—Brigadier General T. F. Davis, commanding the Arizona military district, will be asked by the Mexican consul here to investigate the shooting of Miguel Fontes, a Naco, Sonora, customs guard, it was announced at the Mexican consulate here today.

Dying Man's Statement.
Fontes, who is not expected to live, made a sworn statement late today before Benito Sinaloa, Mexican consul at Naco, Arizona, saying that he had noticed the American soldier, in uniform, heavily armed, riding about 500 yards south of the international boundary and had placed him under arrest when he turned to lead the way to the customs house so that the American's presence under arms might be investigated, he testified, and had only ridden a few feet when the American shot him in the back, then rode across the international boundary. The identity of the soldier could not be learned by the Mexicans, or to which organization he belonged.

WEST COAST OF MEXICO REVOLTS

Revolution Reported Spreading Rapidly in Many Western States.

(By Review Leased Wire.)
DOUGLAS, Oct. 12.—Revolutionary disturbances in the west coast states of Mexico, including Sinaloa, Tepic, Jalisco and Colima, are spreading rapidly according to private advices from Nogales, based on the statements of arrivals there. Fighting between Carrancista troops and members of the Legalist party have been frequent, it was said, while the number of unattached bandit bands has increased greatly.

The Twenty-seventh Battalion of infantry, stationed in Tepic, revolted recently, killed its officers and joined the Alvarez brothers, bandits, whose stronghold is in the Allica mountains. The town of Santiazo Yucuintla in Tepic, was captured by bandits recently and sacked, it was reported.

16 CASES OF TYPHUS
REPORTED IN JUAREZ.

EL PASO, Oct. 12.—There are sixteen cases of typhus fever in the Juarez hospital, a report made to the United States department of public health weekly states. This is a reduction in the number of cases reported to the department two weeks ago, when there was a total of 27 cases in the Juarez hospital.

"GOD WITH VILLA;" VILLA ADMITS IT.

COLUMBUS, N. M., Oct. 12.—Twelve Mexican families with wagons and farm stock arrived at the border tonight from Ascension, starting that many others were following because of fear of Villa. Villa agents told the people of Ascension a few days ago, some of the party said, that the Perishing expedition would leave Mexico by November 1, and that Villa columns would follow and garrison the points evacuated by the Americans. The Villa agents were said to be preaching that Villa's escape from the pursuing Americans proved that God was on his side. Villa in consequence expected heavenly aid in his struggle against Carranza who was styled an usurper. The refugees were passed to the American side by customs authorities.

Port of New York, Practically Blockaded Since Sunday's Attacks, Sees Trans-Atlantic Sailings Resume.

(By Review Leased Wire.)
BOSTON, Oct. 12.—The British steamer Kingstonian, reported as among those torpedoed by a German submarine off Nantucket lightship last Sunday, is safe in port, according to word received today by John M. Thomas of this city, local manager of the Leyland Line, which owns the steamer. Mr. Thomas said his information showed that the Kingstonian was thousands of miles from Nantucket last Sunday.

Was Far From Nantucket.
As the Kingstonian is in the service of the British admiralty, Mr. Thomas was not permitted to indicate the port at which she had arrived, but he said that it would take her two weeks of steaming at her usual speed to reach Nantucket, so that it was evident she was nowhere near the scene of the submarine's operations in these waters last Sunday.

Names Were Confused.
This information serves to confirm the opinion held by marine men here that the report of the Kingstonian's loss was from a confusion of her name with that of the Christian Knudsen, the Norwegian tank steamer, sunk by the U-53.

U. S. OVERHAULS BRITISH SHIP FLEEING

Steamer City of Madras Refuses to Halt When Slipping Out of New York, and Destroyers Outrun Her.

(By Review Leased Wire.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The British steamer City of Madras was overhauled off Ambrose Channel lightship tonight by the United States torpedo boat destroyer Sterrett and brought back to Clifton, Staten Island, after it had ignored the war vessel's signal to stop when it left quarantine.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The City of Madras, a vessel of 3,048 tons, cleared from this port Monday for Singapore, Manila and Hongkong, but anchored above quarantine, apparently fearful of a submarine attack if she ventured out to sea.

As the ship passed quarantine to-night on her way out, she was signaled by the Sterrett to stop, but instead raced down the harbor. She was overtaken abreast the Ambrose Channel lightship.

New York navy yard officers tonight disclaimed all knowledge of the Sterrett's action.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—It was said at quarantine late tonight that City of Madras would be permitted to sail tomorrow morning, as her clearance papers are correct. She was forced to turn back, it was explained, because she failed to obey an order of a U. S. warship on patrol duty.

HUGHES WOULD HAVE WARRED WHEN LUSITANIA WAS SUNK

(By Review Leased Wire.)
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 12.—Charles E. Hughes, answering questions tonight as to what he would have done when the Lusitania was sunk, declared that he would have "made it known in terms unequivocal and unmistakable that we should not tolerate a continuance of friendly relations," when notice was published, "with reference to the threatened action."

Mr. Hughes was in the midst of his discussion on the maintenance of American rights when he was interrupted by the question. "The path of peace is the path of self respect, which maintains the dignity of our citizenship and cements the friendship of all nations," he said. A man from the audience interrupted him.

"Justice Hughes, just a moment. Please permit a respectful interruption," shouted the man. "What would you have done?"

WILSON PAYS GOOD ROADS TRIBUTE IN U. S.

"They Unite a People as Nothing Else Will Do," Declares President at Indiana Centennial Celebration.

REPLIES TO FAIRBANKS' TALK OF SECTIONALISM

"Any Man Who Revives That Issue Is Ignorant of His United Country," Hotly Retorts President.

(By Review Leased Wire.)
INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 12.—President Wilson today replied to the Republican charge that the Democratic party is a sectional party, with the statement that "any man who revives the issue of sectionalism in this country is unworthy of the confidence of the nation." The president came to Indianapolis to address meetings of good roads advocates and farmers, review an automobile parade celebration on Good Roads Day of the Indiana centennial and address at a non-partisan luncheon of leading Indians. In his first speech he spoke of the good done by highways in preventing sectionalism.

Answers Fairbanks.
"My fellow citizens," he continued, "I need not tell you that I did not come here to talk politics but there is one thing that is pertinent in this connection, which cannot deny myself the privilege of saying. Any man who revives the issue of sectionalism in this country is unworthy of the confidence of the nation. He shows himself a provincial; he shows that he himself does not know the various sections of his own country; he shows that he has shut his own heart up in a little province and that those who do not seek the special interests of that province are to him sectional, while he alone is national. That is the depth of anti-patriotic feeling."

At both meetings the President's addresses were interrupted frequently by applause and handclapping marked his progress through the streets. At the fair grounds where he made his speech, the hall in which he spoke later was filled. He also spoke briefly at a luncheon given him by Governor and Mrs. Samuel M. Ralston of Indiana.

The Farmers' Side.
The second speech was devoted to a description of the work of the Democratic administration for the farmers of the nation. The President left here at 5:35 p. m. for Long Branch, N. J., where he will arrive tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

President Wilson in his "Good Roads" speech said in part: "Good roads are necessary for every aspect of our lives, to draw neighborhoods together, to create community of feeling, to create those arteries which may be compared to the arteries of the human body. The blood of the nation will not flow in harmonious concord unless it can flow in intimate sympathy."

More Than Market Maker.
"And so the argument, the material argument, the argument about markets and crops and the products of the mines sink into relative unimportance when you consider the spiritual thing that you are doing in making roads. You know there is an old saying that the lines between cities are obliterated only by the feet that cross them. There is a very genial saying of a great English writer that he never could hate a man he knew. Sectionalism is based on the radical danger of ignorance."

Sectionalism Died 1865.
"My fellow citizens, I need not tell you that I did not come here to talk politics, but there is one thing that is pertinent in this connection which I cannot deny myself the privilege of saying. Any man who revives the issue of sectionalism in this country is unworthy of the confidence of the nation. GREEK NAVY IS SURRENDERED TO ALLIES

Bullied by Anglo-French Governments, Small but Proud Power Bows to Might Under Protest.

(By Review Leased Wire)

ATHENS, Oct. 11.—(Via London, Oct. 12.)—The Greek government today issued a communication in which after reciting the demands set forth in the ultimatum of Vice Admiral Dartigue Fournet, commander of the Anglo-French fleet, that the entire Greek fleet except the armored cruiser Averoff and the battleships Lemnos and Kilkis be turned over to the entente allies, it says:

Just Like Belgium.
"Besides this measure (the delivery of the fleet) the commander in chief of the allied forces declares it indispensable that the breach locks of all batteries of Pireaus be removed, which batteries he proposes in part to occupy."

"The admiral says he will exercise control of the port of Pireaus through officers he will name. Finally, to guarantee France's orient armies, the admiral demands to exercise, through officers he will appoint, the control of the police and the service of the Pireaus-Larissa Railway."

The government statements then adds:

Greeks Submit to Force.
"The Hellenic government, before the lease of a few hours were allowed to expire, replied that it considers its duty to protest against the exigencies formulated, to which, however, it will submit in the circumstances, making of it an imperative necessity."

On the arrival of the crews who had abandoned ships, in the capital, they were wildly cheered by the populace.

It is expected that the text of the allied communication will be made public later by agreement between the governments concerned.

Decisiveness of Victory Proves Best Team Won—Game Is Witnessed in Cold by a Record Breaking Crowd.

42,620 WATCH THEIR HOME TEAM WIN

Pfeffer, Pride of Brooklyn, Lurched by Boston Sluggers—Shore in Last Game Allows But Three Hits.

(By Review Leased Wire)

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—The Boston Americans won the championship of the baseball universe here this afternoon when they defeated the Brooklyn Nationals 4 to 1 in the fifth and final game of the world series.

The largest gathering in the history of the American national sport witnessed the victory, 42,620 fans departing after the contest, convinced that the Bostonians were the baseball machine par excellence of recent years.

As a result of the four-games-to-one conquest over Brooklyn, Boston is tonight celebrating its fifth victory in world's series since 1903, and there is added joy in the fact that never in its history has a Boston team been forced to bow to the superior prowess of a rival in such a contest.

Victory To Best Team

The victory over Brooklyn today was so clean cut and decisive that there was left no ground for argument. That the better team won the championship was obvious. Before the speed and curves of Ernest Shore, the Brooklyners were well nigh helpless, while Jeff Pfeffer, the last hope of Brooklyn, proved unequal to the task of holding Boston in check. Although the Nationals were first to score, their advantage was short lived and once the Boston unliners their heavy batting artillery, any doubt remaining as to the outcome was dissipated, so closely did Shore hold the Brooklyn clan in the mystery of his deceptive delivery.

Shore Too Good

The invaders from Greater New York were able to score only three hits for a similar total of bases and the solitary run scored was unearned. It was the result of a pass, a sacrifice and an out and a passed ball. Boston, on the other hand, got 10 bases on seven hits and two of its four runs were earned.

Played in Bitter Cold

Although the contest was played before a record throng of fans, there was only a moderate amount of enthusiasm, the chilling weather and the ease with which Boston disposed of its opponents dulling the edge of such outbursts as sprang from grand stands and bleachers at the more thrilling points of the game. The day was bitter cold with a piercing wind from the east. The spectators, who paid $22, $73 to witness the triumph of the American League champions, came prepared for the November-like weather. Overcoats, fur wraps and heavy gloves were much in evidence.

Aside from Shore's cold whirling and sensational running shoe top catch by Wheat off Shore in the fifth, and its mate by Lewis in the eighth, when he robbed Merkle, betting for Pfeffer, of an apparently sure double, the game was devoid of feature plays.

Everybody Parades

Immediately after Scott had clinched the championship by gobbling Mowrey's short fly for the last out of the game, the spectators rushed on the field and fell in behind the Royal Rooters and their band for a parade. On the first circuit of the diamond they captured President J. J. Lannin, of the Boston club and then crossed the field after President C. H. Ebbetts of Brooklyn. Amid the cheers of the rival club executives joined arms and led the march while thousands in the stands stayed to watch the celebration.

The players, however, did not wait to take part in the impromptu ceremonies. Both teams rushed for their dressing rooms and there were few if any congratulations. Manager Robinson did not meet Manager Carrigan in his dash across the field, and there was no public greeting or hand clasp between the pair.

TERROR REIGNS AT BAYONNE POLICE WOUND MANY STRIKERS

(By Review Leased Wire.)

BAYONNE, N. J., Oct. 12.—One man was killed and at least a score were wounded, two of them so seriously they are not expected to live, in a fight here late today between striking employees of the Standard Oil Company and the police. The fight was the culmination of a series of disturbances that began Wednesday and continued throughout last night and today. New Jersey militiamen, back from duty along the Mexican border, who were sworn in as special policemen, aided in dispersing the rioters, who were terrorizing the city by looting and burning.

Half a dozen sheds overlooking the oil refineries were set on fire before the authorities were able to restore a semblance of order by firing volleys of rifle and pistol shots into the ranks of the strikers and their sympathizers. Ysidor Natilsky, 22 years old, a lawyer who had no part in the rioting, late today, was the man killed. He was shot through the back, it was said, while running from the scene of battle and fell dead.

As far as could be learned, none of the policemen or the militiamen were hurt. A fireman, however, was shot and wounded earlier in the day while attempting to attach a hose to a hydrant in an effort to drive away an unruly crowd.

Reinforced by the militiamen today, the police took 30 strikers prisoners and started to raid the saloons which had defied the order to close. As the advance guard entered the strike area they were met by missiles from roofs and doorways. They immediately opened fire which was returned by the strikers and their sympathizers.

So serious had the situation become tonight that the Bayonne Business Men's Association announced its members would close all their stores pending the outcome of the strike.
